Low Relief in Clay – Jim Franklin

Contributed by Pete Zachry

The long awaited class with the sculptor, Jim Franklin, has now come to pass. Jim is an accomplished sculptor well known beyond the boundary of Oklahoma. It took nearly a year and a half to get all the schedules together for him to give an exclusive seminar to a group of woodcarvers/sculptors. The class was limited to ten and, luckily, there were enough alternates sign up to ensure the full ten attended despite four resigning at the last minute. The Church of the Servant was kind enough to permit the class to be held in their excellent facilities. The combination of facilities and the studio equipment Jim brought made the entire experience fun and highly informative.

The subject matter selected by the students was an eagle and a big horn sheep. Most chose the eagle in profile; however, several decided on the sheep in three-quarter front view. This limited selection made it somewhat better for Jim since he was able to give group instruction rather than everyone requiring individual help on different projects. He also took some time to give an overview of sculpture around the world with some discussion on the strengths and weaknesses of specific works.

Those attending have had nothing but praise for Jim and the class. His explanation of bas (low) relief certainly carries over to woodcarving techniques. He was very careful to keep most of his instruction targeted toward the needs of woodcarvers rather than simply creating art for casting in bronze or other media. The bottom line seems to be that everyone had a lot of fun, learned some good stuff, and felt their time had been well spent. Thank you to our instructor Jim.

Church of the Servant Classes

Classes are going well. The carvers meet at the church on Thursday evenings from 6-9PM. The church is located at 14343 N. MacArthur Blvd. They also have a brand new top of the line Burke tool sharpener.

TRIPPING WITH TIM, STEVE & DAVID

Steve Brandt, David Porter and Tim Hataway took a little carving trip (and left Barbara at home). Their first stop was in Holton, KS (David didn't go there) and Tim and Steve spent three days of instruction with Gerald Copeland. Then they were off to Crete, NE to Doane College for instruction with Vic Hood for 5 days. It was room and board at the dorm (that's why I didn't go) and it was a great experience for all of them. David stayed for a second week. They would recommend it to all carvers.

Fifty Years Ago —1965 to 2015

Contributed by Pete Zachry

In May, 1965, Leonard Payne and Nathan Jarnigan were involved in a wood carving class at the School of Continuing Education at St. Luke's Methodist Church. With the help of Carl Tangner the organized the Oklahoma City Wood Carvers Club in May of that year with Jarnigan as the first President. Within that first couple of years OCWC also became the officially recognized as the Oklahoma Chapter of the National Woodcarvers Association.

There is no official connection with the St. Luke's Church and OCWC; however, the early membership came from classes and the Club was a splendid outreach for beginner wood carving hopefuls. Dues were set at $3.00 per year and one-fourth of the membership were female. The Club decided to sponsor an annual wood carving show in June of each year. The first meeting's program was presented by Dr. Otis Duncan. The second meeting presented Prof. Darrel Swinsford, an art teacher from Chickasha.

The first newspaper report relating to OCWC activities was in October and included a photo of Leonard Payne demonstrating a chip carved box to Mrs. Richard R. Harrison and James Weaver. The following year showed a giant step up in activity and news coverage with articles featuring Chick Faris, a former policeman, and Mrs. Richard Harrison. Mrs. Harrison was also covered by the Daily Oklahoman teaching twelve wood carvers at a seminar at St. Luke's Church. CHARTER MEMBERS: Nathan Jarnigan, Carl Tanger, Wyn Kroier, Leonard Payne, J.W. Owens, and James Weaver.

Loren Woodard's bark carving class will be coming right after our show and you will need to have your $60 deposit in by September. Total for the class is $125.

Jim Franklin's clay class with Bob Smith and John Luna is looking on.
