AT OUR LAST MEETING...

Nine members showed up for our last meeting – eight in person, and only one through Zoom. The people who were there brought plenty of interesting carvings for show and tell, and John Schaller brought cookies for everyone to enjoy. Afterward, Richard Dalke presented an interesting demo on painting a carved gnome.

Show and Tell:

John Luna shares a cowboy, an elephant and three other nicely carved pieces.

Fred Self talks to us about three of his artful carvings: a staff, a priest and a bas-relief ram.

Keith Newark tells us about his latest wooden abstract piece and the meaning behind it.

Evan Vinson talks about his miniature caricature carving – one of five carvings that he brought to share.

John Schaller talks about his skillfully done architectural carving, which was one of four pieces that he brought for show and tell.

Richard Faulkner tells us about his beautifully finished cinnamon teal carving.

Kent Wallace shows off his Mark Gargac cane.

Thank you all for sharing your work!

Painting a Carved Gnome:

Richard brought four pieces in different stages of completion. The first is a block of wood with a gnome pattern drawn on all the surfaces. The second is an example of a large, carved gnome. The third is a small finished gnome, and the fourth is an identical gnome that he painted as we watched. The patterns can be found in Nikki Reese's book "Carve a World of Gnomes," and is available for $9.99 through Fox Chapel Publishing.

Richard began by telling us about coating the carvings with mineral oil to prevent the paint from soaking into the wood and spreading. He then began painting with craft paint that had been thinned with a little water.

After the paint is dry, Richard recommends finishing it with a little neutral shoe polish.

Throughout the demo, he gave us useful tips for shading, finishing, and more. Overall, it was a fun evening filled with useful ideas, advice, and a healthy dose of camaraderie.

If anyone is interested in doing a presentation either at the meeting or in his or her own workshop using Zoom, please contact Evan Vinson to make arrangements.

NOTES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Hey there carvers! We need volunteers if we're going to have any shows this year or the next. COVID is not the reason we haven't had anything going on as of late; it's the lack of volunteers. So let's get motivated and get some fun stuff going on in OKC!!

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE SHOW

Scissortail Park
405 S Robinson Ave.
Oklahoma City
July 24th and 25th

Come on out, and show off your woodcarving skills! We've been invited to perform a 30 to 60-minute demonstration at the Outdoor Adventure Show. This show is aimed at people who enjoy outdoor recreation, such as camping, fishing, and hiking, and it seems like a great opportunity to introduce younger people to the joys of woodcarving. More information can be found at <https://www.metrofamilymagazine.com/event/outdoor-adventure-show-at-scissortail-park/>. If you're interested in participating, please contact Evan Vinson.

2021 OKLAHOMA STATE FAIR

We have been asked once again to demonstrate our carving skills and promote our club at the State Fair. The date is September 22nd. Please let Kent Wallace (405-819-0460) know if you will be able to help out with this worthwhile project and whether you would prefer a morning, afternoon, or all-day shift.

2021 and 2022 ARTISTRY IN WOOD

As of this writing, no one has expressed an interest in volunteering to help with the upcoming Artistry in Wood shows. Without volunteers we will not be able to get these shows off the ground. If we're going to have a show at the fairgrounds next year, we will need to pay a large deposit soon, and unless we're able to get a commitment from a few of our members to help put the shows together, we will need to cancel plans for both the 2021 mini show and the 2022 show at the fairgrounds. If you would be willing to help out, please contact our Show Chairman, Evan Vinson. Even if you don't have much to contribute, every little bit helps!
